

Temperatures rising
Extreme heat blankets
much of the nation
Nation & World / 7A

Humid and sunny
92/72
Weather / 8A

Hot weather, cool concerts
Summer concert season is in full swing this weekend
Weekend / 2E

The Herald-Dispatch

Huntington, W. Va.

www.herald-dispatch.com

Home Edition 50¢

THURSDAY
July 18, 2013

Wiggins' star shines bright in Hollywood

Huntington Prep basketball star Andrew Wiggins along with girl's soccer player Morgan Andrews received the Gatorade High School Athlete of the Year award during a Hollywood dinner emceed by ESPN's Stuart Scott.

Sports / 3B

Trader Joe's not enticed by Facebook site

A new Facebook page encouraging people to click "Like" in an effort to bring a Trader Joe's to Huntington is not an official way to bring the store to the city. A spokeswoman for the chain said social media campaigns do not factor into the company's site decisions.

Local / 3A

Index

Business 5B Local 3A
Classified 1D B. Lucas 7B
Comics 6B Nation 7A
Community 1C Obituaries 2C
Crossword 4C Region 2A
Editorials 6A Sports 1B
Horoscope 7C Television 7B

© The Herald-Dispatch

HD Media Company LLC

www.herald-dispatch.com
Huntington, West Virginia
Vol. 113 No. 199

MU PICKED TO FINISH 2ND

Herd tabbed to finish just behind ECU in preseason poll

COACHES NAME THEIR PICKS FOR CONFERENCE USA FOOTBALL

SPORTS, 1B

LOSING THE TRAINING WHEELS

Photos by Lori Wolfe/The Herald-Dispatch

Marshall University's Kumika Toma, left, runs to keep up with Gabriel Russell, 9, of Ona as he participates in the 3rd annual Lose the Training Wheels Camp on Monday at Huntington High School.

Camp teaches cycling skills to children with disabilities

The Herald-Dispatch

HUNTINGTON — Several local children with disabilities put rubber to pavement this week during the 3rd annual Lose the Training Wheels Camp at Huntington High School.

Photos Online

Check www.herald-dispatch.com for more photos.

The camp is hosted by Marshall University Kinesiology along with the non-profit charity iCan Shine. The goal of the camp is to teach participants with disabilities how to independently ride a two-wheel bicycle.

Participants in the camp attend one 75-minute session each day of the camp, which ends Friday, July 19, during which they are trained on specially adapted bicycles.

iCan Shine is a national organization that works with local groups to host camps in individual communities. The Lose the Training Wheels Camp has a success rate of about 80 percent, according to a press release from Marshall University.

For more information about Lose the Training Wheels Camp, visit www.marshall.edu/lttw.

Jacob Edmonds, 8, of South Point, Ohio, participates in the 3rd annual Lose the Training Wheels Camp on Monday at Huntington High School.

Surveillance of motorists on the rise

Using automated scanners, law enforcement agencies across the country have amassed millions of digital records on the location and movement of every vehicle with a license plate, according to a study published Wednesday by the American Civil Liberties Union.

FULL STORY, PAGE 7A

Ohio sex offender sentenced to 51 years with no parole eligibility

By DAVID E. MALLOY
The Herald-Dispatch
dmalloy@herald-dispatch.com

IRONTON — An Ironton man has been sentenced to more than 50 years in prison on sexually related charges involving a minor, Lawrence County Prosecuting Attorney Brigham M. Anderson said Wednesday.

Jeremy S. Curry, 23, of the 1300 block of South 1st Street, Ironton, pleaded guilty to rape and five counts of pandering sexually oriented matter involving a minor.

Lawrence County Common Pleas Judge D. Scott Bowling sentenced Curry to 11 years in prison for rape and 8 years on each pandering charge. He ordered all sentences to be served consecutively rather than at the same time.

The victim in the rape case was a 2-year-old child, Anderson said. Ohio law provides that the charge could have carried a life sentence in prison due to the age of the victim, he said.

The pandering charges were filed after child pornography was found on the defendant's phone, Anderson said.

"There is no parole eligibility in the case," Anderson said. Curry will have to serve 51 years before becoming eligible for release.

Curry also was found to be a sexually oriented offender/child victim offender and was ordered to report his address to law enforcement for the rest of his life.

Curry

INNOVATION THROUGH RENOVATION

General Building Supply, Inc.
618 7TH AVE, HUNTINGTON, WV • (304) 529-2551
WWW.GBSWV.COM • WWW.CASEWV.COM

STORE HOURS
M-F 7:30AM-5:00PM
SAT. 8:00AM-4:00PM

MARVIN
Windows and Doors
Built around you.